Small businesses are not immune to cyber and Malware attacks. In fact, they are just as much at risk as large corporations and government organizations, if not more so. Certain types of cyber-attacks are evolving at a pace that outstrips the development of many defensive measures, and small business owners need to be aware of how to protect their business and employees from becoming easy cyber targets.

Networks Northwest's Cyber Security Summit will address the following areas of concern and action for small business owners:

- Cyber Security Best Practices
- Protecting your company information
- What to do if your company has been breached
- Password best practices
- Physical security
- Buying and selling online
- Mobile security
- NIST 800-171 compliance for defense contractors

The summit will feature panel discussions and individual presentations by Cyber Security experts from around the state who are at the forefront of working to protect small business owners or investigate and prosecute the attackers.
